

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS

CHEAP SUBSTITUTES AND "JUST AS GOOD AS."

Unscrupulous dealers, misled only of profit and caring nothing for the health of their patrons, are offering for sale low-grade, impure whiskey, which they tell you is as "good as Duffy's."

It is a cheap concoction and fraud, intended to deceive the people. Of course, when a remedy has been before the public so long, has been prescribed and used by the best doctors and in all the prominent hospitals, and has carried the blessing of health into so many thousands of homes as Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has, imitations are bound to arise. But they can imitate the bottle and label only—no one can imitate the contents.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain; great care being used to have every kernel thoroughly malted, then distilled in the purest and best of a perfect liquid form in the form of a malt essence, which is the most effective tonic stimulant and invigorator known to science; softened by warmth and moisture, its palatability and freedom from injurious substances render it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach.

Any firm that will sell imitation or substitution goods will sell impure goods. The firm that is dishonest in one thing would not hesitate to be dishonest in another. Whenever you see imitation and substitution goods of food for sale by a firm, beware of anything that does not put up by that firm. You endanger your own life and the lives of your family and friends by dealing with them.

BEWARE OF FRAUDS!
DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY is sold in sealed bottles only—never in bulk. A facsimile of the genuine bottle is printed here so that you may easily recognize it. It is our own patented bottle—round, amber colored and with the name "Duffy Malt Whiskey Company" blown in the glass. The trademark—the Old Chemist's Head—is on the label, and over the cork there is an engraved paper seal. Be certain this seal is not broken.

It is the only whiskey recognized by doctors everywhere as a family medicine. At all druggists, grocers, dealers, or direct. $1 a bottle.

PAT HAS QUIT

Pat O'Brien has quit. No more is the jolly brogue of Alexander Hume Ford's right hand man about the precincts of the Outrigger Club.

You see it is this way. It's the way Pat tells it. Pat came to Honolulu to take a government job. Before he took it, he encountered Alexander Hume Ford, who told him how to make money and fame and be happy at the same time. Ford, no Pat says, told him that his fortune would be made if he would take a position with the Outrigger Club at $20 per. The twenty per would not make him wealthy but Ford, no Pat says, told him that he would get him a license so that he could sell soda water, and an ice box to keep it cool, and the wherewithal to buy a ham and some crackers with which to make sandwiches that would sell among the hungry beach visitors like hot cakes.

It sounded good to Pat so he quit the government job and became the high muckracker of the Outrigger Club. He worked hard.

Pat got along fine as long as he had Ford to jolly him each day and make him feel good.

He didn't get the license, and he didn't get the ice box, and he didn't make sandwiches. He didn't make the fifteen dollars a week clear that Ford said would be coming to him. That's the story Pat now tells.

As soon as the hypnotic influence of Ford was lifted Pat began to get depressed. He went to Allan Herber, and he went to Mr. Trine—Pat pronounces it Trint—but they knew only of the $20 a month, and nothing of the promises of Ford.

So Pat has quit. He won't do it any more.

And he has come to the newspaper office and wants it said that if they can't make good on what Ford promised him they ought to give him steerage passage back to the mainland—Pat calls it "back to America."

Meanwhile there is a call for carpenters at Leliehua. Pat says he doesn't want to ask for another government job because it would not seem right after having refused one.

MOTORCYCLE RACES

DEVIL BIKE" RIDER HAS NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH

Dashing through the air like a human bolt from a giant catapult, Sylvester landed in a crumpled heap on the trackside at Kapiolani Park yesterday morning, in the two-mile open championship motorcycle event. A pedal of his "devil bike" came into sudden contact with one of the lumps in the track, and the catastrophe was the result.

Fortunately, Sylvester landed so that he was not seriously injured, minor lacerations of the leg being all he wounds that he sustained, and he was not even rendered unconscious. Berger, his only competitor in the race, finished alone and carried off the prize.

The other events scheduled for the day did not come off. The track was not in condition for fast riding, and Sylvester's mishap rather took the desire for speed out of most of those who had intended riding.

Up to the time of the accident, the spectators got thrills at the rate of 120 a minute during the brief time the two motorcycles were chasing around the track. At the time of the spill, Berger was leading Sylvester by fully 100 yards.

AMERICAN-HAWAIIAN

"Be sure you're right; then go ahead." In big, black letters, eight inches high, the above legend appears in the clubhouse of the American-Hawaiian steamer Texan, and of every other vessel owned or operated by the company. So firm a believer in the motto is the general manager of the company, that he has caused a bunch of signs, each of them about four feet long, to be printed and distributed among the ships.

"Take no chances," are the orders issued to all captains. Mere speed is made secondary to the safety of the cargoes committed to the care of the company, and each skipper is cautioned to be sure of his ground before he makes a move. Should a fog bank render it dangerous to proceed, the skipper of an American-Hawaiian steamer must stop until he is sure of where he is going and what he is likely to run into.

King of England is grievously ill and Prince of Wales assumes many of his duties.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla
Makes Good Blood

Prick your skin with a needle. You will see that it is full of blood. But what kind of blood? Rich and pure? Or thin and impure? Impure blood covers the skin with eczema, rashes, pimples, pustules, salt-rheum, boils, carbuncles, and other sores. These simply tell of something bad down deep in the blood itself. Ointments, washes, powders and cosmetics will not reach the evil. You must take out all impurities from the system with and then see how quickly the skin troubles will disappear.

As now made, Ayer's Sarsaparilla contains no alcohol.

There are many imitation Sarsaparillas. Be sure you get "Ayer's."
